has been found to range between 8 and 11 percent during the last five years, i.e., 1993 to 1997. The recent tragedy in Delhi due to consumption of adulterated mustard oil was an unusual case of conspiracy which is under detailed investigation by CBI. Meanwhile 84 cases of adulteration of mustard oil in Delhi have been taken up for prosecution under the Prevention of Food Adulteration Act, 1954 and Rules thereunder.

(c) and (d) The rules made under the Prevention of Food Adulteration Act are amended from time to time to make them more effective keeping in view the changing needs. The Act already provides for summary trail and stringent punishment for adulterators. In cases of proven adulteration, the Act provides for a minimum punishment of six months imprisonment which may extend upto three years with fine. However, in cases where such adulteration is found to cause death or bodily harm, as would amount to grievous hurt, within the meaning of Section 320 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), the adulterator shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than three years, but which may extend to term of life, and with fine which shall not be less than five thousand rupees.
